A Multicultural Health and Wellness Fair

BUENA PARK, CA

On Saturday October 19, dozens of vendors gathered at The Source mall in Buena Park for our first annual Multicultural Health and Wellness Fair. It was the same day at the Korean festival and together we garnered hundreds of attendees.

Our goal for this event was to educate the public on alternative forms of medicine from all different cultures. In attendance, we had Royal Botanical, LA Fitness, Arbonne, and Forest Lawn. Suja juice supported us by handing out free bottles of fresh pressed juices.

The program also went smoothly. Our Health and Wellness Ambassador Sherill Franklin spotlighted the importance of living a healthy lifestyle. We also had Andy Huang of Royal Botanical speak on the innovative ways CBD treats pain and sickness.

Executive Roundtable

NEWPORT BEACH, CA

On October 15, almost 30 investors and executives gathered in an undisclosed location in Newport Beach to discuss the trends in technology. In particular, the innovative ways that the eSports community is embracing change.

The event was hosted by KW Partners which is owned by AIB Ambassador Irving Kau. KW Partners focuses on pre-IPO startups. Their newest fund "Pangea" seeks to bring together investors that are focused on high net growth companies that are consciously improving their communities. It is KW Partners' belief that truly prosperous companies also focus on family values and giving back. Clearly this principle has served them well as the average return for clients have been significantly higher than other investment firms across the board.

Speaking at the event were Brian Jue who is the COO of Irvine America Trading Company, Mark Linao who is a part of AET Fund (Akatsuki Entertainment Technology Fund) out of Santa Monica, and Hershel Mehta who is a part of Mehta Ventures based out of Mumbai, India, led by prominent Angel Investor Sanjay Mehta.

Walnut Family Festival

WALNUT, CA

Hundreds of Walnut residents gathered on Saturday, October 12 to attend the annual Family Festival held by the city of Walnut. Eric Ching, Walnut City Councilman and Ambassador of AIB helped to facilitate various vendors and booths.

Eric worked alongside AIB and the pastors network in the faith community to bring churches, non profits, and businesses together to give back to the people of Walnut. Attending was everyone from Young Kim for Congress to clowns who made balloon animals for the children.

It was an extremely successful event that was a lot of fun for everyone who attended and got to visit all the booths.

AIB2B TOUR SERIES: AMAZON FULFILLMENT CENTER

SAN BERNARDINO, CA

AIB2B members celebrated Halloween this year with a small group attending the Amazon Fulfillment Center Tour in San Bernardino as part of our AIB Tour Series.

Our group realizes the importance of seeing first-hand the ins and outs of a successful business. Most of us have purchased items from Amazon but how does those goods get shipped to us so quickly?

The tour lasted about an hour and participants were able to see from where the products enter the warehouse to quality assurance to packing and of course shipping.

In the past, we have toured the LA Times Newspaper, Sriracha, and Yakult. Join us today as a member to be eligible to attend future tours. Visit <http://aib2b.org/contact/membership/> to learn more.
